Apologetics — Islamic Presuppositionalism

How to refute Islamic Presuppositionalism?

1) I would show how the Transcendental Argument for God (TAG) cannot be substantiated in the Islamic Worldview.

2) I would do an internal critique of Islam to show the inconsistencies and logical impossibilities displayed in the Quranic Text and its transmission.

Much like G. Bahnsen did as well. http://www.cmfnow.com/articles/pa123.htm

How is one supposed to decide between Bible-affirming presuppositionalism and Qur'an-affirming presuppositionalism?

1) The absurdity of the contrary. If you deny the authenticity of the bible (Torah and Injil) as Muslims do you must deny Islam, because Allah has inspired the Torah, but has allowed the Injil to be corrupted.

2) We cannot start with the presupposition that Allah exists either. The Islamic Doctrine of "Tanzih" (Transcendence) - Surah 42:11 renders Allah (unknowable) in a linguistical sense meaning we cannot have a Revelatory Epistemology in Islam, which means we cannot know whether Allah has in fact revealed himself in the words of the Quran.
